Types of Discourse Markers:

Addition: These markers show that a new idea or information is being added to the previous one.	• Additionally, moreover, furthermore, also, in addition.
Contrast: These markers indicate a difference or opposition between two ideas.	• However, on the other hand, but, nevertheless, although, whereas.
Cause and Effect: They show a cause-and-effect relationship between ideas.	• Therefore, thus, consequently, as a result, because.
Emphasis: These markers emphasize a particular point or idea.	• Indeed, in fact, especially, particularly, notably.
Enumeration: They are used to list items or ideas.	• Firstly, secondly, thirdly, in conclusion, to begin with.

LIVEWORKSHEETS