

Test 1

Leisure Time in the Countryside

Many teenagers today live busy lives with schoolwork and social media. However, they still enjoy their leisure time. Some teenagers prefer spending time outdoors with their friends. They ride bikes, solve puzzles, or make DIY crafts.

In the countryside, life is slower but very interesting. Farmers work in paddy fields and cultivate crops such as rice and vegetables. During the harvest season, families often help each other collect crops and load them onto trucks. People in the countryside are usually very hospitable, and they enjoy welcoming visitors.

Teenagers in rural areas often help their families feed cattle, dry crops, or pick fruit in the orchard. After work, they relax by chatting with friends or sending a message on their smartphones to keep in touch.

Although city life is modern and exciting, many people think the countryside is more peaceful and closer to nature.
