

THE SCHOOL INNOVATION REPORT

Redesigning Education: How Modern Infrastructure Impacts Student Motivation.

Many experts believe that if schools had more funding, they would become centers of creativity, and they would offer better opportunities. And, if the classrooms were more colorful, students would feel more motivated. So, architects suggest painting walls with bright colors.

Learning is changing, but many buildings are still old. If we replaced traditional desks with modular furniture, students would work better in groups. And, every student should have a tablet. This is a great idea, but it is expensive. So, the government should help.

And, if the school day started later, teenagers would be more awake, so their grades would improve. But, parents often disagree with this change. So, we need to find a compromise. And, if we had a cinema room, we would watch films in English, but we need more space. So, we must renovate the basement.*
