ART OR MATERIAL?

A huge, modern sculpture has disappeared from a university campus in west London, raising fears that monumental bronzes are becoming popular with thieves as they can be melted down for pure metal.

One of The Three Watchers, a set of figures created by Lynn Chadwick in 1960 and worth around £300,000, was stolen from the grounds of Roehampton University after being cut off at the feet. This crime happened less than a month after Henry Moore's three-million-pound gigantic Reclining Figure was driven away from a sculpture park in Hertfordshire. Both statues were taken at night by thieves probably using a lorry with special lifting equipment. The Metropolitan Police said yesterday that as many as twenty similar thefts of bronze artworks had been reported in and around the capital within the past year.

The price for pure metal has risen greatly and this has opened up an opportunity for gangs to make a quick profit. The Henry Moore sculpture, taken in mid-December, is believed to be worth around £5,000 if melted down; the Chadwick may bring as little as £1,000. Reduced to pure metal, the figures are worth only a fraction of their art market value but neither police nor art dealers believe such large objects would be stolen for a private collection. In many cases, the sculptures have been badly damaged.

Detective Sergeant Vernon Rapley, the head of the Metropolitan Police's arts and antiques unit, refused to name any of the artworks apart from the Henry Moore. 'They were all large bronzes,' he said. 'Not in any one particular style. They included human figures, abstracts and even a seven-foot cockroach. In one case, the thieves stole part of a sculpture. We don't know whether this is one gang or a number of thefts looking very alike. The only thing the sculptures had in common was the material: bronze.'

Writing

Your Scottish friend Rob invited you to stay with him during the Edinburgh Festival and take part in the unofficial programme of the Fringe (Alternative) Festival as a street performer. He sent you the advertisement with the following options:

Fringe Unofficial Street Performances

You can perform on three stages throughout the day. Each performance is 20 minutes long.

Living statues: Mime artists posing like statues, sometimes with realistic, statue-like make-up.

Portrait artists / caricaturists: Set up close to St. Giles on the Royal Mile drawing / painting festival visitors.

Musicians (instrumental and vocal): Pop, jazz, classical, folk. Individual performers and bands as well. Limited spaces and time slots for musicians who are particularly loud.

Dancing and acrobatics: Ball-room, modern and show dancing, classical and jazz-ballet. For individual performers, pairs and groups too. Limited spaces for large groups.

Miscellaneous: Performing any kind of show that you think would attract audiences.

(<https://www.edfringe.com/experience/programme>)

Write an email of 80-100 words to Rob in which you

- tell him how you feel about this sort of festivals,
- ask him what performance he has in mind,
- tell him if/what you would like to perform.
