

The Graduation Dream

By this time next year, Sarah will have finished her fifth semester at the university. It hasn't been easy, but she is determined. By the end of December, she will have completed all her language exams and she will have reached a C1 level of English.

Her friend, Tom, also has big plans. By the time they graduate, Tom will have traveled to three different countries to practice his teaching skills. He believes that by then, he will have mastered the art of Flipped Learning.

They often talk about their future. "By 2030," Sarah says, "we will have become professional teachers and we will have transformed many lives in our community." They know that before that day arrives, they will have worked very hard, but they are ready for the challenge.