1. Emma’s School Week

Emma is a student in Year 7. Her timetable is different every day, and sometimes she has the same subject more than once a week.

On Monday, Emma starts the day with Maths. After Maths, she has English. In the afternoon, she has Science, but she does not have History on Monday.

On Tuesday, her first lesson is Geography. Later, she has Maths again, and her last class of the day is Art.

On Wednesday, Emma has English in the morning and PE in the afternoon. She likes Wednesdays because she doesn’t have Maths that day.

On Thursday, the day begins with Science. After that, she has History. Her final lesson is English again, so she studies English twice during the week before Friday.

On Friday, Emma’s first class is PE. Later, she has Geography, but she never has Art on Fridays. Her last lesson of the week is Maths.

Emma thinks Wednesday and Friday are the most fun days, but Monday is the busiest.

2. Leo’s Year of Activities

Leo likes to plan interesting things during the year, but he doesn’t do the same activity every month.

In January, Leo usually goes skiing, but he does not travel anywhere in February because he is busy at school.

In March, he starts playing tennis again, and he sometimes plays it in April too, although April is mainly for cycling with his friends.

Leo never goes camping before May, but in May he usually goes camping for the first time that year.

In June, he goes swimming often, and he continues swimming in July, when the weather is even warmer.

In August, Leo does not swim as much, because he travels with his family. They usually visit another city.

In September, Leo returns to tennis practice, but he doesn’t go camping anymore after summer.

In October, he rides his bike again, although not as often as in spring.

In November, Leo mostly stays at home and reads books, and in December, he goes ice skating, which he never does earlier in the year.

Leo thinks summer is the most active season, but winter is the most relaxing.
