

Although many schools organise an anti-bullying campaign to raise awareness ,	cyberbullying and verbal bullying are still serious social issues in modern society .
In spite of several campaigns to reduce crime and poverty ,	these pressing social issues still affect many people in developing societies .
Many teenagers suffer from body shaming and peer pressure .	As a result , their self-confidence decreases and they may feel anxious or even experience depression .
Because cyberbullying can seriously affect students' school performance and cause anxiety ,	many schools promote awareness campaigns to deal with this social issue .
Many teenagers feel embarrassed about their appearance because of body shaming ,	which may lead to depression and low self-confidence .
Some students hang out with the wrong social group under peer pressure .	As a consequence , they may become involved in crime or other offensive behaviour.
In addition to raising awareness about bullying ,	schools should teach students to stand up to bullies and show sympathy for each victim .
A recent survey shows that overpopulation and poverty are serious social issues .	Therefore, governments must promote policies to improve people's living conditions.
Some students feel like the odd one out because of their appearance or fashionable clothes.	However, true friends should support them and show sympathy .
Since many children live in poverty ,	they often struggle with poor school performance and higher crime rates in society .