My sister Victoria has three hobbies, and she is serious about each of them. Collecting coins was her first hobby. She has been collecting them since she was just eight years old. Our father went to China on a business trip, and he brought back some coins. I wasn't very interested in them, but Victoria was. The next time he traveled, she asked for some coins. He brought her some from Egypt. Today, she has an enormous collection, with over 1,000 coins from more than 75 countries.

Victoria has also been collecting dolls for almost six years. Our grandmother takes a trip to a different foreign country every year, and she always brings my sister and me wonderful presents from each country. Once, my grandmother bought Victoria a Kokeshi doll from Japan. Not long after that, she began collecting dolls from around the world. She has some beautiful dolls made in the US, but the most incredible are the ones from Russia made of wood and painted in beautiful colors.

Victoria's third hobby has nothing to do with coins or dolls, and she has only been doing it for a year. It's taking photos of animals. At first, Victoria went to the zoo every weekend. She took great photos of the leopards and lions. Then, she started saving money for her first safari to Africa. She went on a safari two years ago and came back with some amazing photos of giraffes and zebras. She was sad to come home, so she has been saving and planning for another safari. Maybe I'll go with her next time.
