Don't Play with Fire

Jack felt very bored at home. He had no siblings to play with, and his parents were at work. As he looked around the house, he noticed a small box of matches on the dining table.

"I've never played with matches before. This could be fun!" Jack thought. He took out one match and struck it against the side of the box. Suddenly, a small orange flame appeared at the tip. He thought it was beautiful and tried to touch it. He slowly moved his little finger towards the flame.

"Ouch!" he screamed as the heat burned him. In pain, he dropped the match, which landed on a pile of old newspapers. Within seconds, the fire started spreading. The flames grew bigger, and smoke filled the air. Jack panicked. "Help! Fire! Help me!" he screamed loudly for help.

Luckily, his neighbour, Lim, heard his cries. He rushed inside, grabbed Jack and carried him out of the house to safety.

Jack trembled as tears ran down his face. He was grateful to Lim for saving his life. From that day on, he promised never to play with fire again.

10. Jack was feeling bored at home because _____.
- A he had a lot of work to do
B he was alone at home with nothing to do
C he was waiting for his neighbour to come over to his house
11. Where was Jack when the incident happened?
- A Outside B At home C At his neighbour's house
12. What happened after Jack touched the flame?
- A He blew out the fire before it spread.
B He dropped the match on the floor and it burned out.
C He burned his finger and dropped the match on some newspapers.
13. How did Jack escape from the fire?
- A His neighbour carried him outside.
B Lim put out the fire and saved him.
C He ran outside to safety all by himself.

14. In the end, Jack learned that _____.
- A he could play with matches
 - B he should not use matches without adults' supervision
 - C he should have played with the matches more carefully

Questions 15 to 20

Read the texts about three people (A, B and C) carefully. For each question, choose the person (A, B or C) who fits the description. Write your answer in the space provided.

A	Anna I have loved the ocean since I was young. As a marine biologist, I have worked for eight years studying whales, turtles and jellyfish. I think it is very exciting to dive into the sea and learn about sea creatures. I help clean the ocean and protect coral reefs. Sometimes, I also rescue sick sea creatures. When I am not in the water, I visit schools to teach children about the ocean. I hope people will stop polluting the sea and help protect marine life.
B	Debbie I have been working as an astronomer for ten years. I chose this job because I love studying the space. I work in an observatory, where I use a telescope to look at the planets, stars and asteroids. I spend many nights watching the sky and writing reports. My job is important because I help scientists to understand space. Sometimes, I appear on television or visit schools to talk about the universe and space travel. I hope one day I can help astronauts travel to Mars.
C	Olivia As soon as I finished my studies, I became a wildlife photographer. I travel to different countries to take pictures of animals in nature. Most of them are elephants, polar bears and colourful birds. It is not easy because I must wait for hours to capture the perfect picture. I also have to be very quiet so that I do not scare the animals. My photos appear in magazines and books to teach people about wildlife. I hope my pictures will help people love and protect animals.
