Thanks for your email, Grandad! Yes, I have got a job. It's in a clothes shop called Greens near the train station.

We sell very nice clothes, but they are expensive. We have a lot of clothes for men, and some clothes for boys. We don't sell women's clothes, but some girls come to buy our men's T-shirts.

I work at Greens on Saturday mornings and Sunday afternoons. The shop wants me to work on Saturday afternoons, but I play football. The shop opens on Thursday evenings too, but I can't work then because I have a Spanish lesson.

There is a bus stop next to the shop. On the first day I went on the bus, but now I go on my bicycle. It takes me 20 minutes.

Come and see me at the shop!

Love Jack

Subject: Weekend

Dear Teo,

How are you? I hope you are well. My friend, May, moved from Miami to Vancouver last October. She said they have had a lot of snow there. Is it the same in Toronto?

It's not cold here, but there's a lot of rain. Yesterday, I walked to my friend's house. It was not a good idea! It's a short walk to Ludo's house, but my trousers got very wet! Her Dad was kind to me and gave me some jeans to wear. We watched a film together. After two hours, I went home. The sun was out and it wasn't raining then. My trousers were dry, too!

Usually on Sunday mornings, I go for a long bicycle ride. But this morning, it was raining again. I wanted to go, but my parents told me not to. My friends asked me to play games online, but I decided to do my homework. I usually do it on Sunday afternoons before we go and visit my grandparents. That was a good idea. I never normally sit and relax after lunch.

Please write soon and tell me all about your weekend.

Hi Danny,

Last week, it snowed every day! I couldn't go out of the house at all! It stopped snowing on Sunday morning, so my family and I walked to the lake.

It wasn't busy when we arrived at 10 a.m., but soon there were lots of people. Mum and Dad wanted to go shopping, so we all had lunch together and then they left. My sister, Zara, and I stayed out until it got dark. I wanted to watch a film after dinner, but I was too tired. I went to bed after we finished tidying up.

A new report says AI (Artificial Intelligence) will replace 14 million jobs by 2030. Read our list of jobs that robots and computers will never be able to do.

High Energy

Jobs to do with fitness, sleep and healthy eating are all part of the wellness industry. Worldwide, by 2030, the value of this industry will be more than 8.5 trillion dollars – up from 5.6 trillion in 2022. This means it will rise by nearly 3 trillion dollars! Although AI will replace some of the jobs, there will still be lots of opportunities to work in this area.

High Tech

Between 2010 and 2020, software programmers were top of the list for the most needed employees. This will continue into the future. After all, if we do not have people with the skills and qualifications to design, build and test software, who will create the AI software which we will use?

High Touch

'High Touch' is usually used to talk about being helpful by providing great customer service in shops or businesses. However, we are using 'High Touch' specifically to describe jobs where you help someone by using your hands. We believe most of these jobs will never be replaced by AI. Therefore, if your job is to care for people who cannot look after themselves, such as being a nurse, your career is probably safe.

High Up

Do you like the idea of becoming a space tour guide? Space tourism is growing quickly. Already, people who have millions of dollars can pay to go into space. If space travel gets cheaper, a lot of new jobs will be created, including space tour guides. After all, space tourism will need everything that other travel companies need, and more!
