

1. Japanese is spoken by 126 million people.
2. One million people live in the city of Tokyo.
3. There are 1.2 billion people in China by 57 million people.
4. Spanish is spoken by 450 million people.
5. There are 1.2 billion people in China Cantonese.
6. There are 1.2 billion people in China 246 million people.
7. More than 500 million people live in the city of Tokyo.
8. There are 1.2 billion people in China in Uganda.

3 AN INTERVIEW

Grammar Note 2

 Jill Jones is writing an article about Bolivia. Use the passive form of the verbs in parentheses and short answers to complete her interview with a Bolivian cultural attaché.

JONES: I'm writing an article about Bolivia, and I'd like to check my information

ATTACHÉ: Certainly. How can I help you?

JONES: First, I'd like to find out about the early history of Bolivia. Was the area first inhabited by the Inca?

1. (inhabit)

ATTACHÉ: _____. There was a great civilization on the shores of Lake Titicaca long before the Inca flourished. That civilization _____ probably _____ by ancestors of the Aymara, who still live in Bolivia.

3. (create)

JONES: That's fascinating. Changing the topic, though, let me ask about the agriculture of your country. I know potatoes are an important crop in the mountains.

_____ corn _____ in the Andes as well?

ATTACHÉ: _____. The climate is too cold and dry. But quinoa is. Quinoa is a traditional grain that grows well in the mountains.

JONES: Quinoa? How _____ that _____, with a k?
6. (spell)

ATTACHÉ: No, with a q—q-u-i-n-o-a.

JONES: OK. Thanks. Now, I know our readers will want to read about llamas. How _____ they _____?

(continued on next page)