Singapore or Singapura is a city as well as a country in South East Asia. It is a little red dot located just off the southern tip of Peninsular. Singapura is a Malay word. Singa means Lion and pura means City. That is why Singapore is also known as Lion City.

This Lion City was founded as a British Colony in 1918 and it had been developed into one of the world's busiest ports today. You may find lots of modern skyscrapers everywhere mixed together with a taste of traditional Chinese, Indian and Malay-influenced buildings. With a combination of great taste food, fantastic shopping, exciting nightlife, first-class airport and connections to the rest of the world, this Lion City is a great stopover.

According to legend, Singapore was part of the Srivijayan Empire in the 13th century. Began in 1819, Singapore was founded by Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles and he declared Singapore a free port, with no duties charged on trade. This policy had drawn traders from far and wide and turned her into one of the Asia's busiest ports.

When World War II broke out, Singapore was seen as a formidable British base; with several naval defenses guarding against assault by sea. However, to their surprise, the Japanese chose to cross Malaya by bicycle instead. Despite with all the effort to hold the Japanese, Singapore surrendered on 1942 with less than a week of fighting. The Japanese occupation lasted for three years and eight months with the return of the British in 1945. After the war, Singapore became a British Colony.

Singapore joined Malaysia for a short time in 1963 when the British left, but Singapore left Malaysia and became independent on 9th August 1965. Since then, Singapore's economy has boomed for the subsequent forty years and become one of the four East Asian Tigers.
