Hey, cousin!

How are you? We haven't spoken in a while, so I thought I'd email you with my news. I'm writing to you from Florida. I have a summer job here working in a hotel on the beach. It's hard work but I'm enjoying it. It's my day off today—I get one day off a week.

The hotel is really nice. I'd love to come on vacation here! I'm sitting in the garden under a tree while I'm writing to you—it's nice and cool. There's an incredible swimming pool on the roof, but we aren't allowed to use it ☹️—only the guests can use it. But I get my own bedroom while I'm working here, so that's good.

My main job is working in the kitchen during dinner. There's a chef and I'm her assistant, so I have to chop vegetables and things like that. There's a dishwasher, so I don't have to do the dishes, but I have to sweep the floor regularly because it gets really messy with bits of food. It gets quite crazy in the kitchen when the restaurant is busy, but it's fun—everyone laughs and jokes as we work. And when we finish, the chef makes us all a delicious meal.

I also have to help out with cleaning the bedrooms. I don't enjoy that so much—some of the guests are really messy! I'm not sure I want to work in a hotel when I'm older, but it's a great way to earn a bit of money for the future and it's good work experience.

How was your vacation? I'm sure you needed it after working so hard for your exams. Email me back with your news. And when I'm back in Kentucky, let's meet up.

Justin
