Rewrite each sentence so that it begins with the words underlined. Use the appropriate form of an infinitive: simple (to do), continuous (to be doing) or perfect (to have done)

Example: People say that the automotive industry is having a bad year.

The automotive industry is said to be having a bad year.

1. The employees suspect that the management is looking at the possibility of job cuts.

_____

2. People think that some explorers stole the treasure.

_____

3. People say that the new boss is difficult to work with.

_____

4. It is believed that the Chinese invented paper.

_____

5. Everyone knows that eating fast food is bad for your health.

_____

6. The referee thought that the player was simulating foul.

_____

7. Environmentalists fear that many animal species are disappearing rapidly.

_____

8. People hope that scientists may find a solution to the climate crisis soon.

_____

9. The government announced that taxes would increase the following year.

_____

10. Witnesses claim that the driver was talking on the phone before the accident.

_____

11. Historians think that ancient people built these monuments thousands of years ago.

_____

12. People expect that smart household appliances will become cheaper in the future.

_____

LIVEWORKSHEETS