Are you one of those active people who like challenges? If so, why not take part in a sports event that will give you lots of satisfaction and also help raise money for children in need? Events like Tough Mudder or Grate48 are organised by the Rainbow Trust, a charity organisation that supports families with seriously ill children. The charity does a lot to help such families in their day-to-day activities.

So, how about trying Grate48? In this event, which is held on 7th November, you will have the opportunity to climb to the top of one of the tallest buildings in the UK, the Leadenhall Building. It has forty-eight floors (over twelve hundred steps)! Apart from a chance to do something unusual, you'll also receive a medal to help you remember your achievement.

Both in the UK and worldwide, people have completed various challenges recently to help raise money for ill children. Last year Sally, aged 53, took part in the 3 Peaks Challenge, which meant she climbed the three highest peaks in Scotland, England and Wales in just 24 hours. Explaining her motivation, she said: 'I've always loved climbing mountains, so when I learnt what Rainbow Trust is all about, I was determined to help. The special purpose of the climb gave me much more satisfaction than I'd felt on previous climbs.'

- 1 The Rainbow Trust is _____ which helps (families with) ill children.
- 2 People who complete Grate 48, receive _____.
- 3 Sally climbed the _____ in Scotland, England and Wales in less than 24 hours.
- 4 After she had completed the challenge, Sally felt a lot of _____.
