The lost racing car

George was unhappy because he couldn't find his new toy racing car. It was a silver car and George loved playing with it. But now it was missing.

'Perhaps I lost it while I was playing in my bedroom,' he thought, and went to look for it there. He couldn't see the car anywhere, so he went into the living room and looked under all the cushions on the sofa. Then he looked behind the sofa, but it wasn't there. Then he rang his friend, William. He sometimes played at William's house. 'Is my racing car there?' he asked. 'No, it isn't. Sorry, George,' said William. 'What am I going to do?' George thought.

'Have you seen my car?' he asked his mum. 'No,' she said. 'Go outside and look in the garden.' He found a tennis ball in the grass, but his car wasn't there. Then he went to look in the big tree in the middle of the garden. He could see a large nest in the tree. Suddenly, a beautiful black and white bird flew into the nest. It was carrying something silver. 'Perhaps the bird has taken my silver car!' George thought. After the bird flew away again, George climbed the tree and looked inside the nest. His car was there. 'Wow! That's lucky,' George thought. 'What a strange place to find it!'
