1.Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D to indicate the correct word or phrase that best fits each the numbered blanks (Đề chính thức 2020 mã đề 402 đợt 1)

YOUR ONLINE IDENTITY

Presenting yourself in the best possible light to a prospective employer is what job applications are all about. (1)_____when you put together a compelling CV, write your concise covering letter and check your LinkedIn profile, you might also want to 'Google' yourself and see what comes up, because increasingly that's what employers are doing. Your online identity, in (2)_____your Facebook profile, could in fact be considered the ultimate CV - a personal, honest and spontaneous description of how you see yourself and how those (3)_____know you see you.

That's not to say that a potential employer is necessarily going to disapprove of your silly behaviours on a night out with friends; indeed, they might be looking for an extrovert character. But it does mean they will be examining your real interests and motivations and mining (4)_____sites for clues to your true character. So if you say in your CV that you're a motivated, loyal team player and then criticize your employer to friends on Facebook, that's probably not going to go (5)_____Try Googling yourself and then ask: "Would you hire you?"
