6. We plan to seale our spare offices to an American company.
7. The flat is to tle at £1,000 per month.
8. They've bought a new house and are going to meov ni next week.

2. Task 2. NOUNS AND ADJECTIVES

A. Read the descriptions 1 - 14 and decide which type of accommodation is being described in each one. Use your dictionary to look up the meanings of the adjectives in bold.

detached house • semi-detached house • house • mansion • palace • castle • bungalow • cottage • caravan • prison cell • hospital ward • barracks • houseboat • flat

1. It's quite an old house, and the walls are paper-thin, so we can hear everything the neighbours on both sides are doing.

2. There are three of us in here and it's really claustrophobic, especially as we can't open the window and the door is locked all the time. Oh well, only another 7 years to go!

3. The patients on either side of me are really nice, which is good because otherwise this place is really depressing. I hope I get well soon.

4. Towers and turrets, bastions and battlements. Mist on the moat and dragons under the drawbridge. This place is awe-inspiring.

5. It's a bit cramped, but the great advantage is that, when we get fed up with one place, we just attach it to the back of the car and move on.

6. It's lovely out here in the countryside and we try to spend as much time here as possible. It's quite a little house, but very cosy, of course.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

7. It's a very large, spacious house with a long drive, beautiful gardens and a view over the golf course. There are fifteen bedrooms, although we don't use them all of course!	8. Although we live in the city, our house stands alone in its own garden. This means that we don't get any noise from the neighbours on either side.
9. Our next-door neighbour likes to play loud music at night, so we moved the bedroom to the other side of the house where there aren't any neighbours directly next door.	10. I'm not sure who lives there now, but at one time it was the residence of King George III. It's very grandiose; 120 bedrooms and almost 600 hectares of land.
11. My grandparents bought it last year. Its main advantage is that it only has one floor, so they don't have to worry about climbing any stairs.	12. It's moored on the River Thames near London. It's very peaceful, apart from the noise from the ducks and geese.
13. The block where we live is next to the underground station. It's smaller than our old house, of course, but we have a great view from the 8th floor.	14. There are fifteen of us in here, but the sergeant-major makes sure we keep it tidy. If we don't, we get extra guard-duty!

B. The box below contains a list of words giving the names of different rooms and other parts of a house or flat. These words have all been joined together, and to make it more difficult for you, they have all been written backwards! Can you separate them into individual words?

roolftsrifroolfdnuorglaireanoisiveletyenmihcfoorynoclabecarretnedragsriatscittamoordebm oorhtabrallecllahnehctikmoorgninidmoorgnivil ← Start here, and read backwards.

Did you know?
There are some differences between British English and American English when we talk about accommodation. These are:

British English:		American English:
Ground floor	=	First floor
First floor	=	Second floor
Garden	=	Yard
Terraced house	=	Townhouse
Detached house	=	One-family house
Flat	=	Apartment
Bungalow	=	Ranch house
Caravan	=	Trailer

In American English, the living room is sometimes called the den.

In Cambridge exams like the FCE and the CAE, American English is acceptable, provided you use it consistently.

1. Match the words below with their description. Then look at the adjectives in bold and put them into the appropriate section of the table depending on whether these words have a positive connotation (P) or a negative connotation (N). There is an example at the beginning (0).

caravan • country • cottage • detached house • villa • bungalow • terraced house • castle • ~~tent~~ • flat • mansion

0. Old ones were made of canvas and were very basic. Ours is made of nylon and can sleep three people. It's surprisingly cosy and very easy to set up. However, it can get a bit damp if it rains. __Tent__
1. It's very impressive, isn't it? All those towers, turrets and ramparts. I would imagine that the rooms are very spacious, but I don't think anybody lives there anymore. There are probably no facilities, like electricity or running water, and it's probably very draughty. _____
2. It looks quite small, with probably just two or three rooms on each floor. They're probably a bit cramped, too. I'm not sure I'd like to live so close to my neighbours—you could hear everything that was going on on either side. _____
3. This is my idea of a typical modern family home: a living room, dining room and kitchen on the ground floor, three or four bedrooms and a bathroom upstairs, a garage and a small garden. It's not very pretentious, which is why I like it. _____
4. Who lives in a house like this? Probably somebody very rich. It's huge, isn't it? With those large windows, it's probably very bright and airy inside. And there's a long, tree-lined drive so that you can park your Rolls-Royce collection. _____
5. I think it looks a bit depressing. I don't like high-rise accommodation. I imagine that the rooms are a bit seedy and squalid. It's not at all homely. I feel sorry for the people living there. _____
6. It's very pretty, with the garden and the flowers. It's probably a bit basic inside, and it might get a bit claustrophobic in the winter. A farmer might live here, or maybe someone who has retired. _____
7. Look at that patio and the fountain! And there's a balcony too. It's probably somebody's holiday home. I imagine that inside it's very roomy, with lots of mod cons—air conditioning, a home entertainment system, and so on—and lots of cool white marble on the floor. _____
8. It's quite small, but probably very practical for an elderly person who has problems getting up the stairs. It looks like there might be a small room in the attic, or it might just be storage space. _____
9. It must be very pokey inside. It's OK for a holiday, but I'm surprised anybody could actually live here. I suppose the advantage is that if you get bored living in one place, you could just move, together with your home, somewhere else. _____

Accommodation 2

1. Cover up the plan of the house at the bottom of this page, then read the description below. When you have done that, cover up the description and try to write the name of each feature onto the plan.

I live in a bungalow on the outskirts of the city. There's a small, tree-lined path leading to the porch. As you go through the front door, you enter the hall. The first door on the right leads to the kitchen-diner, and beyond that there's a small utility room where I keep the washing machine and fridge-freezer.

The first door on the left leads to my study, where you'll find my desk and computer. Next to this room, there are some stairs leading down to the cellar, which I use for storage. After the stairs, also on the left, there's another door which goes through to the living room.

Directly opposite this room is my bedroom, and next to this there's a bathroom. The next room along is a small bedsit, with a bed and basic cooking facilities, which is being used by a student.

At the end of the hall, there's another door which opens out onto a small terrace and the garden, which has a few flowerbeds and a tiny lawn. There's a shed at the end of the garden where I keep my bicycle and gardening tools.

5. As we have some spare offices, perhaps we could seale them to another company.

In the Exam...

In the Speaking Test, you may be asked to describe your home or your "dream" home, or you may be asked to describe a photograph of a house or other building. In addition to giving a brief description of the building, you should try to say what you think of it, who might live there, and so on.

In the Writing Paper, you might also be asked to describe a house in a letter or a report. In addition to describing the different rooms using a variety of adjectives, you may also need to explain where the rooms are in relation to each other.

Notice how the description of the house in Part A is organised 'spatially' (it begins at the front of the house and moves to the back of the house). Try to do this if you are asked to talk or write about a room or a building.
