

Using a schedule or calendar is the absolute best way to teach the Present Simple for future use (scheduled/timetabled events).

Here is a complete, ready-to-use classroom activity based on Lionel Messi's current schedule.

Classroom Activity: The GOAT's Timetable

Phase 1: The Setup

Which one sounds more natural for a fixed calendar event:

1. Messi is going to play Austria tomorrow.
2. Messi plays Austria tomorrow.

Explain that when we talk about official schedules, timetables, or fixed itineraries, we use the Present Simple to talk about the future.

Phase 2: The Handout (Messi's Official Schedule)

Distribute the following schedule to the students.

Date	Time	Event / Action
June 23	10:00 AM	The team travels to Alabama.
June 23	7:00 PM	Argentina plays a warm-up match against Iceland.
June 24	09:00 AM	Messi celebrates his 39th birthday.
June 25	02:00 PM	The team arrives at their training camp in Kansas City.
June 28	08:00 PM	The knockout stage match kicks off .
July 2	11:00 AM	Inter Miami opens its training ground for returning players.

Phase 3: Student Tasks

Task A: The Media Briefing (Sentence Building)

Students act as sports journalists writing a press release about Messi's upcoming week. They must rewrite the prompts using the Present Simple for the future.

- Prompt 1: (Messi / fly) to Alabama tomorrow morning.
- Prompt 2: The friendly match against Iceland (start) at 7:00 PM.
- Prompt 3: What time (the team / arrive) in Kansas City on Thursday?
- Prompt 4: Argentina's next big tournament match (not / happen) until Sunday.

Production (Create Your Own)

Imagine You are Messi's personal assistant.

Assignment: Write a 4-sentence email to Messi outlining his itinerary for next Monday using the Present Simple. Example: "Leo, your morning practice starts at 9:00 AM. You meet with the sponsors at 1:00 PM..."

 Teacher Tip

Remember to watch out for the third-person "-s" (e.g., The match starts, The planes leaves). This is the most common mistake students make when switching their brains into "future mode" using the present tense!
