The Crocodile

The crocodile is a large reptile that lives in rivers, lakes, and swamps. Crocodiles have long bodies, strong tails, and sharp teeth. Their tough skin is covered with hard scales. They are usually brown or green, which helps them hide in the water. Crocodiles are great swimmers and spend most of their time in the water. They eat fish, birds, and other animals. A crocodile can stay underwater for a long time without moving. This helps it catch its food by surprise. Baby crocodiles hatch from eggs and stay near their mothers. Crocodiles are wild animals and can be dangerous. People should always watch them from a safe distance.
