Reading Comprehension: Mathew's Daily Routine

Read the following passage and then complete the task below:

Hello everyone. My name is Mathew, and I am a chemistry teacher. I also have a big family, so as you can imagine, I have a very busy daily routine! First, I get up every weekday at 5:30 am, shower, get dressed, have breakfast and drive to work around 7:30 am. I arrive at school at 8 o'clock. I get my class and lessons ready and then teach until lunchtime. All the other teachers and I eat lunch together in the staff room. I then teach year 11 students in the afternoon and finally correct my students' homework and mock tests. I leave school at 4.30 pm and go straight home. Once I arrive back home, the first thing I do is help my children with their homework. I have twin daughters and a son called Michael. The girls' names are Sam and Dawn. When I have finished with them, I spend some time cooking dinner for everyone in the kitchen. My wife gets home from work just before we sit down to eat dinner together. Every evening, we all watch TV before going to bed at about 11 o'clock. My wife likes to read a bedtime story to the children. Finally, my wife and I chat about our day in bed before we both fall asleep.
