#3. Complete the text with the adjective form of the words in brackets.

Last year, my friend Mark made a [1] risky (risk) investment: he bought an old house to repair and sell. Although it had once been one of the most expensive and [2] _____ (impress) buildings in the street, the house was [3] _____ (afford) because it was in such bad condition. The outside walls were [4] _____ (dirt) and damaged in places, which made the building quite [5] _____ (danger). The garden was [6] _____ (mess) because no one had looked after it for years. The windows didn't fit properly, so the house was cold and [7] _____ (noise) – you could hear the traffic outside.

Today the house is hardly [8] _____ (recognize). Downstairs, there's a [9] _____ living room with a sofa and some [10] _____ (comfort) armchairs. As well as an enormous kitchen, there's another room, which would be [11] _____ (suit) as a study or a small bedroom.

Upstairs, there's a [12] _____ (luxury) bathroom with a jacuzzi, as well as four tastefully-decorated bedrooms. Mark doesn't have a very [13] _____ (health) lifestyle, as he spends all day sitting at a desk, so he's installed a small gym in the attic.

The house is also much quieter and more [14] _____ (peace) now because the windows have been changed. The garden has been tidied, and it has some beautiful flowers, which makes it much more [15] _____ (colour). It's a very [16] _____ (rest) place to sit and have lunch or read a book.

Repairing a house can be quite [17] _____ (stress), but Mark is happy with the result. The repairs were [18] _____ (expense), but he's sure he has made a [19] _____ (profit) investment. The house is in a [20] _____ (desire) part of town, and he's calculated that it's now worth three times the money he paid for it.
