Brazil top division side Chapecoense were aboard the aircraft that crashed in Medellin, Colombia with 81 people on board. A little-known team outside their own country, Chapecoense made headlines in tragic circumstances. But what else do we know about the Serie A outfit? Who are they? The club's full name is Associação Chapecoense de Futebol, and they were founded in 1973. Chapecoense is based in the town of Chapecó in the State of Santa Catarina, south of Brazil, approximately 450 km from Porto Alegre. Having toiled in Brazil's lower divisions since 1979, Chapecoense made a return to Serie A in 2014 and have stayed in the league since then. This is no small achievement for a club of their lowly stature, in a league populated by more illustrious teams such as Corinthians and Santos.
