Questions 21–26

For each question, choose the correct answer.

A Winter in Antarctica ❄️

Life in Antarctica is very different from life in most countries. Scientists spend several months working there and must prepare carefully for the long winter. Before the ship leaves, they make sure everything is ready because they know they will not see it again for many months.

Although the work is often difficult, many scientists enjoy the experience because they can work in an unusual place and learn new skills. They also have to wear warm clothes and strong boots to protect themselves from the cold weather.

Modern technology has made life much easier. Scientists can now send e-mails and talk on the phone with their families, so they do not feel so far away from home. During trips outside the station, they stay together with a rope to keep everyone (21) _____.

Life is not always easy, but many people think the beautiful scenery is worth the hard work. The clear skies and amazing sunsets make Antarctica a very (22) _____ place to live and work.

Scientists also need to get (23) _____ to living with only a small group of people for many months. This can be difficult for someone who is used to working in a large company.

Before going outside, everyone must wear the (24) _____ clothes because temperatures can become extremely low.

Although they eat mainly dried food, the scientists know it is important to stay healthy (25) _____ they are living in such a remote place.

Many of them hope they will return to Antarctica (26) _____ the future.
