The Flying Dutchman

11th July, 1781

It was 4 o'clock in the morning. We were sailing around Cape Hope on the south coast of Africa when the lookout boy screamed out: "Ship coming towards us at full speed!" I came out of my cabin and went to see what was happening. As soon as I was on deck, I saw a huge ship coming up to the left side. All the people on board were looking at the ship in surprise while it was coming closer. I ran to the side to get a better look at this strange ship, but the ship was no longer there. It was then that I realised what was happening. That was the famous ghost ship, The Flying Dutchman. It haunted these waters ever since Captain Van der Decken and his crew died a hundred years ago when the ship sank in a storm. I turned to look at the lookout boy but he was not on the mast. According to legend, whoever looked at the ship closely, disappeared.

• Past Continuous – Past Simple

- 9 Read the theory. Say the examples in your language. Find examples in the text.

Past Simple

- for completed actions in the past. The ship left an hour ago.
- for actions which happened immediately one after the other in the past. He stood up, got his bag and left.

Past Continuous

- for actions which were happening at a specific time in the past. They were watching TV at 2:00 yesterday afternoon.
- for actions happening at the same time in the past. She was making dinner while he was washing the dishes.
- When one past action interrupts another past action we use the past continuous for the action which was happening and the past simple for the action that interrupted it. He was reading his paper when the phone rang.

The phone rang while he was reading his paper.
