Eye in the Sky

Satellites are machines in space that circle Earth. They help us talk to people on the other side of the planet. They can also study the planet's weather.

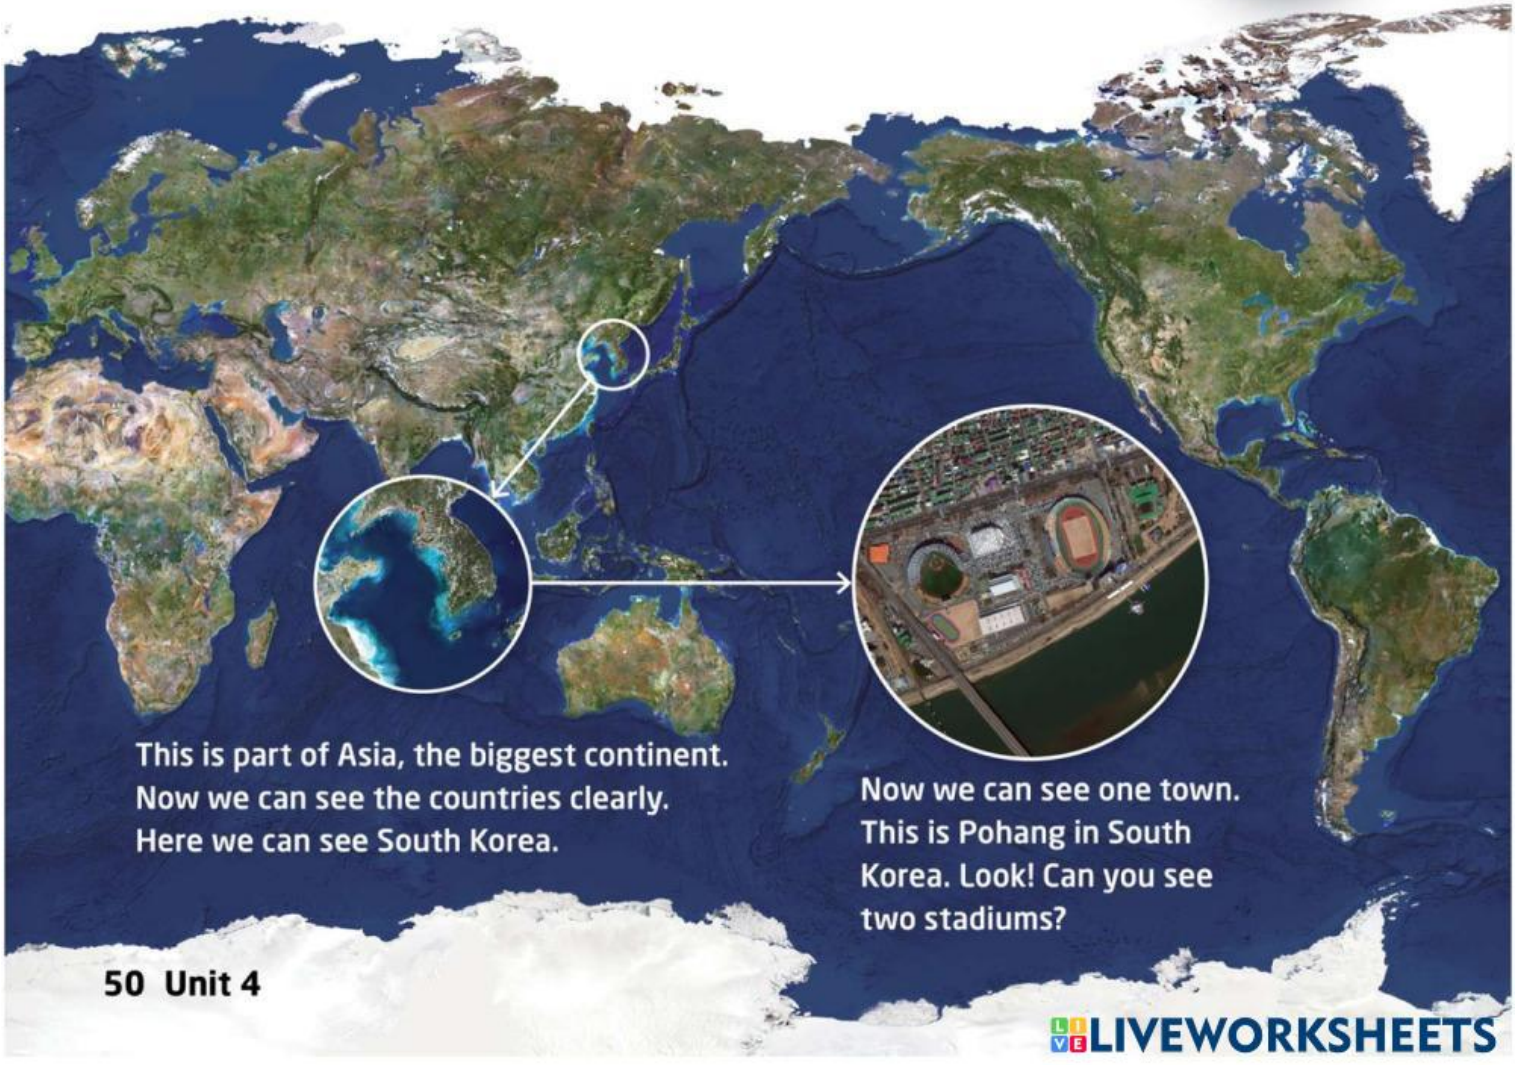

This satellite is called GeoEye 1. It's the same size as a big car. It takes photos of our planet. These photos can show continents and oceans. They can show streets and houses, too!

Weird but true

A satellite can see an open umbrella from space!

2 Talk about your town. You can use a photo or map. Work with a partner.
