The first week was incredibly challenging for her. She felt bored and disconnected from her friends. However, Linh gradually discovered activities she had forgotten - reading physical books, painting, and having face-to-face conversations with family members. She noticed her sleep quality improved dramatically.

During her one-month digital detox, Linh limited phone usage to two hours daily. She joined a basketball club, learned to play guitar, and volunteered at a local library. Her grades improved significantly, and she felt happier and more energetic than before.

Linh now advocates for balanced technology use among her classmates. She created a school club called "Screen-Free Saturdays" where students enjoy outdoor activities together. She dreams of becoming a psychologist to help teenagers develop healthy relationships with electronic devices.

Question 1: What was Linh's daily habit before her digital detox?

- A. She exercised for eight hours every day
- B. She read books for many hours daily
- C. She spent over eight hours daily on her smartphone
- D. She played basketball with her friends

Question 2: Why did Linh visit the doctor?

- D. A psychologist to help teenagers with technology issues

Exercise 14: Four phrases/sentences have been removed from the text below. Choose the correct answer to complete the text. Write only the letter A-D in each blank.

MY DIGITAL DETOX WEEKEND: A LIFE-CHANGING EXPERIENCE

Last month, my parents suggested that our family should try a "digital detox weekend" without any electronic devices. (1) _____

On Friday evening, we put all our smartphones, tablets, and laptops in a box and locked it. At first, I kept reaching for my phone out of habit, even though it wasn't there. (2) _____ My younger sister complained that she couldn't watch her favorite YouTube videos.

On Saturday morning, we decided to have a picnic in the park. Without phones to distract us, we actually talked to each other properly for the first time in months. (3) _____ We played badminton, flew kites, and enjoyed the beautiful weather together.

By Sunday afternoon, something surprising happened. I no longer felt the urge to check social media constantly. (4) _____ I realized that real-life experiences bring more joy than scrolling through screens endlessly.

This weekend taught me the importance of balancing technology use. Now, our family has "screen-free Sundays" every week, and we've never been closer to each other.

Choose the correct answer to complete the text. Write only the letter A-D in each blank.

- A. I felt anxious and bored without knowing what my friends were posting online
- B. I was nervous because I couldn't imagine spending two whole days without my smartphone
- C. Instead, I felt peaceful, relaxed, and more connected to my family than ever before
- D. My dad shared funny stories from his childhood, and my mom taught us her favorite card game

HOW ELECTRONIC DEVICES CHANGED MY FAMILY ACROSS GENERATIONS

My name is Trang, and I'm a 15-year-old student from Da Nang. Recently, I interviewed my family members about how electronic devices have changed their lives over the years. Their stories surprised me in many ways.

My grandmother, who is 75 years old, grew up without any electronic devices at home. She told me that her family got their first radio when she was twenty. (1) _____ She still remembers gathering with neighbors every evening to listen to music and news programs together.

My father, now 48, experienced the arrival of television in Vietnam. (2) _____ He said that watching TV was a special family event, and everyone would sit together in the living room after dinner.

My older brother, who is 22, belongs to the computer generation. He got his first laptop when he entered university. (3) _____ He believes that computers opened doors to unlimited knowledge and global connections for young Vietnamese people.

As for me, I cannot imagine life without my smartphone. (4) _____ However, after hearing my family's stories, I realize that each generation found ways to connect and learn, even without modern technology.

This project taught me that electronic devices are just tools. What truly matters is how we use them to improve our lives and strengthen our relationships with others.

Choose the correct answer to complete the text. Write only the letter A-D in each blank.

- A. I use it for studying, chatting with friends, and entertainment every single day
- B. He described how excited the whole neighborhood was when his family bought their first black-and-white TV in 1985

- C. She explained that this simple device brought the outside world into their small village for the first time
- D. He told me that this device completely transformed how he studied and communicated with classmates
