MY WEEK AS A VETERINARIAN'S ASSISTANT: DISCOVERING MY DREAM CAREER

Last summer, my school organized a work experience program where students could spend one week learning about different professions. I chose to work at a local animal clinic because I have always loved animals. (1) _____

On Monday morning, I arrived at the clinic at 7:30 AM. Dr. Thanh, the head veterinarian, welcomed me warmly and explained my responsibilities for the week. At first, I only watched how the staff handled different animals and kept the clinic clean. (2) _____. However, I reminded myself that every professional starts from the basics.

By Wednesday, I was allowed to help with simple tasks like feeding the animals and comforting nervous pets before their checkups. A small puppy was brought in with a broken leg, and I watched Dr. Thanh treat it carefully. (3) _____. The puppy's owner cried with happiness when she heard her pet would recover completely.

On Friday, my last day at the clinic, Dr. Thanh asked me about my future plans. I told her that this experience had changed my perspective entirely. (4) _____. She smiled and encouraged me to study hard in biology and chemistry to prepare for veterinary school.

This work experience week helped me understand that choosing a career is not just about salary or status. It's about finding something that makes you excited to wake up every morning and go to work.

Choose the correct answer to complete the text. Write only the letter A-D in each blank.

- A. I felt a bit disappointed because I expected to do more exciting things immediately
 - B. Before this experience, I had considered becoming an accountant like my father, but now I am certain that I want to become a veterinarian
 - C. I was amazed by her patience and skill, and I felt proud to be part of the team helping animals recover
 - D. I felt both excited and nervous because I had never been inside a real animal hospital before

HOW CAREER CHOICES HAVE CHANGED ACROSS THREE GENERATIONS IN MY FAMILY

My name is Khoa, and I'm a 15-year-old student from Hai Phong. For my social studies project, I interviewed my family members about how they chose their careers and what influenced their decisions. Their experiences were very different from mine.

My grandfather, who is 78 years old, had very limited career options when he was young. He became a rice farmer like his father and grandfather before him. (1) _____. He worked hard in the fields for over fifty years and never regretted his choice because farming provided food and stability for our family.

My mother, now 45, grew up during a time of economic change in Vietnam. (2) _____. She studied accounting at a local college and got a stable job at a government office. She told me that her parents were very proud because she was the first person in the family to have a professional career.

My older sister, who is 24, belongs to a generation with many more opportunities. She decided to become a software engineer after discovering her passion for technology in high school. (3) _____. She now works for an international company and can even work from home.

As for me, I have countless career options to explore. (4) _____. However, after listening to my family's stories, I understand that every generation faced different challenges, and success comes from working hard in whatever path you choose.

This project taught me that career choices reflect not only personal interests but also the opportunities available in each era.

Choose the correct answer to complete the text. Write only the letter A-D in each blank.

A. She explained that young people in her time could finally choose careers beyond farming and manual labor

B. I can research any profession online, take career tests, and even connect with professionals worldwide through social media

C. He explained that in his village, children simply followed their parents' occupations without questioning or considering other possibilities

D. She attended coding bootcamps, watched online tutorials, and built her skills independently before entering university
