PRESENTATION

The Clothes We Wear: Fashion or Future?

MIND MAP FOR THE QUESTIONS

1 How often do you buy new clothes, and what usually makes you want to buy them?

Answer I buy new clothes every few months. I usually buy them when I need something useful or when I find something useful at an affordable price.

Detail Sometimes I shop at a discount store, and I also like second-hand clothes because they are cheap and interesting.

Impact This helps me cut down on waste, carbon use, and emissions from the textile industry.

2 What do you usually do with clothes that you do not wear anymore? Why do people often throw old clothes away instead of reusing them?

Answer I usually give them away, sell them, or use them in upcycling projects instead of throwing them away.

Detail Many people want to get rid of old clothes quickly, or they think the fabric is too old or not fashionable anymore.

Impact Reusing clothes is better because some materials do not degrade quickly and create environmental waste.

3 How can the fashion industry affect the environment, and why should people care about this problem?

Answer The fashion industry causes carbon emissions and other environmental problems globally.

Detail Some synthetic fabrics can release tiny fibres into the water, and animals may swallow them by mistake. The government and politicians should help make stronger rules.

Impact People should care because climate problems and pollution affect people worldwide.

4 What can teenagers do to make their clothes more environmentally friendly?

Answer Teenagers can buy fewer clothes, choose second-hand clothes, and cut down on fast fashion.

Detail They can repair clothes, swap them, upcycle an old textile into a useful household item, and find out which brands recycle materials.

Impact This is a win-win situation because it saves money and helps the environment.

The Clothes We Wear: Fashion or Future?

5 In the future, would you choose clothes made from recycled materials or normal clothes? Why?

Answer In the future, I would choose clothes made from recycled materials.

Detail Companies can process old fabric into new textile products. Some new materials even come from algae or recycled foam.

Impact If these clothes are sold at an affordable price, they can help reduce waste and build a greener future.
