

UNIT 2: GENERATION GAP

Ms Hoa: Good morning, class. Today, we'll talk about the (1) _____. So, what is the generation gap?

Mark: Well, I think it's the difference in beliefs and (2) _____ between young and older people.

Ms Hoa: You're right, Mark. So, is there a generation gap in your family?

Mark: Not really, Ms Hoa. I live in a (3) _____ with my parents and brother. We understand each other quite well though we still (4) _____ small things.

Ms Hoa: Right. We can't avoid daily arguments. What about you, Mai?

Mai: Well, I live with my (5) _____, and I have to learn to accept the differences between the generations.

Ms Hoa: That's a good point. Can you give us an example?

Mai: Well, my grandparents hold traditional views of male jobs and (6) _____. For example, my grandfather wants my brother to be an engineer, but my brother hopes to become a musician. And my grandmother thinks women have to do all the housework.

Ms Hoa: How about your parents? Do they share your grandparents' views?

Mai: No, they don't. They think that we should (7) _____. They give us advice, but never (8) _____ us (9) _____ their footsteps.

Ms Hoa: Thank you, Mai, for sharing your experiences. You must respect your parents and grandparents, but you should also express your (10) _____. Now let's continue our discussion with ....
