

A blank postcard template. On the right side, there is a dashed rectangular box for a stamp. Below the stamp box, there are five horizontal lines for an address. A vertical line separates the address area from the rest of the postcard.This image shows a completely blank white rectangular area enclosed within a thin black border. There are no markings, text, or illustrations present on the page.