When the Pilgrims arrived in Massachusetts, some had children. But life wasn't easy for these children:

They play all day long. They work hard.

First, girls go to school because they help their mothers.

They water from the well (=puits), they to knit (=tricoter)
the clothes. They only go to church once a week, on Sundays.

It was also difficult for the boys. They help build the houses. They find wood to make fires or they take care of the cattle (=troupeaux).
