1 Two friends are talking at the shopping centre. Why is the boy at the shopping centre?

Girl 1: Hi, Chris. What are you doing here at the shopping centre? You usually do all your shopping online.

Chris: Well, not today. I need to go to one of the shops here.

Girl 1: Why? Do you need to look at something in the computer shop?

Chris: No. My computer's fine, but I read there's a great new clothes shop here.

2 A boy, Adam, is talking about shopping. What did he buy?

Adam: Guess what? I was in the market yesterday doing some shopping for my mum. She wanted me to buy some fruit and some bread. I got the bread first and then on the way into the fruit shop, a dog jumped up, took the bread in its mouth and ran away!

3 A woman is talking to her daughter about a present for her son, Matt. What is the present?

Mum: Emily, when you go to the shops today, please can you collect Matt's birthday present for me? It's not very big, so you can put it in your school bag. He has lots of jumpers, but this one is different. I hope he likes it.

Emily: OK Mum. Where do I need to go?

4 Two friends are talking at one of the friend's houses. What is the boy doing?

Boy: Did you find that information for our history project?

Girl: No, I don't know where the list of websites is. Have you got it?

Boy: Yes, in my homework diary. Anyway, look at this site. These are the shoes I like. And they've got my size.

Girl: Well, buy them quickly. Then we can find the website for school.

5 A teacher is talking to the class about a school trip. What is he telling them to do?

Teacher: So, class, please don't forget about tomorrow's trip. Make sure you arrive at school at the usual time. It's warm at this time of year and you usually wear T-shirts and shorts, but it isn't warm by the lake so don't forget to bring a jacket.
