The Lion and the Mouse

Once upon a time, a lion lived in a forest. He was big and strong, and all the animals were afraid of him. One afternoon, the lion was sleeping under a tree. A little mouse accidentally ran across his body and woke him up. The lion caught the mouse and wanted to eat him. The mouse was very afraid and said, "Please, let me go. One day, I may help you." The lion laughed because he thought a small mouse could never help a strong lion. However, he felt kind and decided to let the mouse go.

Several days later, the lion was caught in a hunter's net. He tried to escape, but he could not break the strong ropes. The lion roared loudly. The mouse heard him and quickly came to help. The mouse used his sharp teeth to cut the ropes. Finally, the lion was free. He thanked the mouse and realized that even a small animal could help a big animal.

The Clever Deer

One day, a deer lived near a river in a quiet forest. He was a clever and careful animal. Every morning, he walked to the river to drink water.

One afternoon, the deer saw a crocodile waiting near the river. The crocodile wanted to catch him. The deer was frightened, but he did not run away immediately. He thought of a way to cross the river safely.

The deer looked at the crocodile and said, "I want to cross the river, but I am not sure if there are many crocodiles in the water. Could you help me count them?"

The crocodile was happy because he thought the deer would come closer. He called the other crocodiles and asked them to line up across the river.

The deer jumped from one crocodile to another while he counted them. "One, two, three, four!" he said. When he reached the other side, he quickly ran into the forest.

The crocodiles realized that the deer had tricked them. They were angry, but the clever deer was already safe.

The Kind Girl and the Old Woman

Maya was a kind girl who lived with her parents in a small village. She often helped her mother at home and liked helping other people.

One rainy afternoon, Maya walked home from school. On the way, she saw an old woman sitting beside the road. The woman looked tired and cold. She did not have an umbrella.

Maya felt sorry for her. She opened her umbrella and walked with the old woman to her house. When they arrived, the old woman thanked Maya and gave her a small box.

Maya opened the box at home. Inside it, she found a beautiful necklace. She showed it to her mother, but her mother told her that the necklace might belong to the old woman.

The next morning, Maya returned to the old woman's house. She gave the necklace back to her. The old woman smiled and thanked Maya for being honest.

Maya went home happily. She learned that being honest and kind was more valuable than having an expensive necklace.
