Today there are 40 theaters in New York City that are known as Broadway theaters. Surprisingly, only three of these are on the street called "Broadway." All the others are on other streets in and around Times Square. These are big theaters with 500 seats or more. Of course, New York City has smaller theaters, too. "Off Broadway" theaters have fewer than 500 seats, and "off off Broadway" theaters have fewer than 100 seats.

Tickets for Broadway plays aren't cheap. They can cost $140 or more. But there are ways to see a Broadway play more cheaply. For example, early afternoon shows (matinees) usually cost less than evening shows, and seats in the back of the theater are cheaper than seats that are closer to the stage. To save the most money, you can buy a "Standing Room Only" ticket. You'll have to stand at the back of the theater, so remember to wear comfortable shoes!

New York has Broadway, and London has the West End. Last year, Broadway theaters sold about 12.27 million tickets, while West End theaters sold about 13.6 million. The Phantom of the Opera is Broadway's longest-running show. It opened in 1988 and has been performed more than 9,500 times. In comparison, the West End's The Mousetrap opened in 1958 and has been performed more than 24,000 times.

1. Most Broadway theaters are not on Broadway. ____
2. "Off Broadway" theaters are smaller than "off off Broadway" theaters. ____
3. If you want to save the most money for a Broadway ticket, buy a ticket for a seat at the front of the theater. ____
4. More people went to plays in the West End last year than went to plays on Broadway. ____
5. Broadway's The Phantom of the Opera opened before the West End's The Mousetrap. ____

Fashion Week

Interview: Grant Park

Our Fashion Week reporter spoke to model Grant Park last month on the beach at Cabo San Lucas in Mexico.

FW: Thanks for speaking to us, Grant. What a great place for an interview! The weather is warm, and the beach is beautiful. Have you ever been here before?

GP: Yes, I have. 1, and now I love the place. There's so much to do and see. Did you know that if you drive just ten minutes out of Cabo, you're in the desert? 2 in the Sierra de la Laguna mountains. After lunch, we left the car, walked to the top of one of the mountains, and looked down on the desert and the Pacific Ocean – amazing!

FW: So are you here for a vacation, or are you working?

GP: Ah, that's the nice thing about the life of a model. 3. Yesterday we relaxed and had fun, but later this afternoon, we're modeling men's summer suits. Can you see it? People are swimming in the ocean and lying on the beach, and I'm walking around in a suit.

FW: Uh, isn't it hot for that?

GP: Well, that's the great thing about Cabo. It's near the hot desert, but it's always cooler at the beach because of the wind from the ocean.

FW: Do you always work in exotic places?

GP: Most of the time, yes. That's another great part of the job. Last year, I went to the Great Wall in China, Mount Fuji in Japan, and the Amazon River in Brazil. I've also been on a boat on the Grand Canal in Venice and on the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco.

4

FW: Wow! You do get around. I'm jealous. . . . And what about the future? Do you think you'll always work as a model?

GP: Well, that's the difficult thing. You can't be a model forever. 5. So maybe I'll teach again after I stop modeling.
