A Brave Little Sparrow

One sunny morning, a little sparrow named Pippin saw a small bird trapped in a bush. The bird had hurt its wing and could not fly. Pippin knew he had to help. He carefully picked up a few twigs and made a small nest for the injured bird. He also found some water and seeds. For days, Pippin visited the little bird, bringing food and checking on its wing. Slowly, the bird got stronger.

After a week, it could fly again. The little bird thanked Pippin with a cheerful chirp. Pippin felt happy because he had helped a friend in need.
