10 Read this short story. Each sentence has ONE mistake with either the past simple, past continuous or comparatives. Correct the mistakes. You may need to add a new word.

1 I wasn't feeling confident before the race. I knew the other runners were faster and experienced than I was.

2 But I still wanted to do my best and run the race as fastest possible.

3 When I heard the whistle start the race, I wasn't ready – I looked for my parents in the crowd at the time.

4 So I got off to a slow start than the others.

5 Over the next 400 metres, I fell even far behind.

6 But then, just as I was starting to think the race was over, I was seeing my parents in the crowd.

7 So I started running a little more fast and I noticed that I was catching up with the others.

8 I gradually got closer and closer to the other runners, who were a lot more tired that I was.

9 Then, with less than 100 metres to go, I tried even hard, and I ran past the leader. I was in the lead!

10 In the end, I was winning the race by two seconds! It was my best time ever.
