Mountains Gorillas

There's good news for the mountain gorillas that live in the forests of Uganda, Rwanda, and the Democratic Republic of the Congo. In 2008, there were only about 680 of these amazing creatures. But in 2018, there were more than 1,000.

People have worked hard to protect the mountain gorillas and their environment. One of the groups that helped them is called the Gorilla Doctors. The Gorilla Doctors are a group of veterinarians (animals doctors) who help the mountain gorillas in different ways; for example, if a mountain gorilla gets sick, the Gorilla Doctors will take care of it. When a gorilla gets caught in a trap, the Gorilla Doctors rescue it.

A lot of people want to see mountain gorillas, but scientists still want people to be careful. If too many people get too close to them, it could damage their environment. If we want there to be mountain gorillas in the future, we need to protect them now.
