B. News, Weather, and Public Service Bulletins

These talks are similar to ones you might hear on radio and television, especially on news programs. Questions usually ask what is being reported and about details given in the talk.

Sample Items: News, Weather, and Public Service Bulletins

Woman: It looks as though our warm, sunny, summer-like weather will continue at least through Saturday and Sunday, so this weekend will be the perfect time to go out to the countryside to view the colorful fall foliage. On Monday, though, it appears we're in for a change. It should be a little cooler with cloudy conditions, and there's a chance of rain. The long-range forecast shows a few snow flurries coming our way by Wednesday of next week. And you can expect to see the temperatures drop to around 22 degrees Fahrenheit that day — that's minus 5 degrees Celsius, folks, so you'd better get out those winter coats.

Q. What kind of weather is predicted for the weekend?

(A) Rapidly changing
(B) Cloudy and cooler
(C) Rainy or snowy
● Warm and sunny

The speaker says that the weather will be warm and sunny through the weekend. Choice (B) refers to the prediction the speaker makes for Monday.

Q. During what season is this forecast probably being given?

(A) Spring
(B) Summer
● Autumn
(D) Winter

The speaker says that the weather will be "summer-like." This indicates that the weather will be warm, as it is in the summer. The speaker also forecasts cool and cloudy conditions for Monday. However, it is clear from the mention of "colorful fall foliage" (leaves) that it is autumn.

Q. What does the speaker suggest people do on Wednesday?

(A) Listen to the weather forecast
● Dress warmly because it will be cold
(C) Carry umbrellas in case of rain
(D) Go out to the countryside

The speaker says snow is predicted for next Wednesday, so the temperature will be getting much colder. Therefore, the speaker suggests that people dress in their winter coats to stay warm.
