Messaging

People have sent messages for a long time. Now we use instant messaging, but in the past messages took days to arrive. Using your cell phone to send text messages began around twenty years ago. Another name for these messages is SMS, which means Short Messaging Service. People send text messages because they're quick and cheap. But now the most common way of communicating is by instant messaging. Smartphones have apps that let you send messages for free. Kids and teenagers chat with their friends using instant messaging apps. Now you can even make free calls with some apps. In the last few years, communicating has become much cheaper!
