Learning Online

Many people now take online classes to learn languages, improve their job skills, or study new subjects. Online learning is popular because students can study from home and often choose a convenient schedule. It can also save time because students do not need to travel. However, studying online is not always easy. Some students find it difficult to concentrate at home, and others miss talking to classmates in person. Teachers can help by using short activities, discussions, and regular feedback. For many learners, a combination of online and face-to-face classes works well.

A. Write True or False. (1 point each)

1. Online classes can help people improve job skills. _____
