The Story of Sneakers

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Long ago, most shoes were made of thick, hard leather. When people walked down the street or inside buildings, their shoes made a loud clack-clack sound on the floor! Before shoe makers added soft rubber to the bottom of shoes, walking quietly was almost impossible.

Everything changed when workers invented rubber soles for sports shoes. After people started wearing these new shoes,they noticed something amazing: they could walk across a room without making any noise at all! They could even sneak up behind their friends quietly. Because of this, people began calling them sneakers.

Today, sneakers are popular all over the world. When children go to school, play tennis, or ride their bicycles, they like to wear colorful sneakers. Before you put on a pair of sneakers today, take a look at the rubber soles on the bottom—they are the reason your shoes are so light and
