Find the mistakes in the text and write the correct form on the given lines.

You have just bought some chocolate from a store. Your chocolate came from a tree near the Equater, but how did it reach you? Who did the work? When the tree were about five meters tall, farmers picks the cocoa flowers. They cut them open and took out the beans. Before the farmers put the beans in sacks to sell them, they had to leave them in the shade for a week and then dry them in the sun for ten days.

After that, someone take the farmers' sacks to a port by truck and sent them to a factory by plane or ship. Ingrediants were then added, and the chocolate was put into a mold. Finally, the candy was wraped and packed. Can you guess what happened next?
