THE BIG SATURDAY FEAST

Today is Saturday, and the Martinez family is getting ready for a big family dinner. In the kitchen, there is a lot of excitement. Mom, Leo, and Sofia are looking at the kitchen counter to see what they have and what they need to buy.
-"Let's check our ingredients," Mom says, holding a notepad.
-"First, the fruits and vegetables."
-"Well, there are many apples and a big bunch of green grapes on the table," Sofia says. -"There are also some yellow bananas."
-"Great," says Mom. "Are there any vegetables?"
-"Yes, there are some carrots and tomatoes," Leo answers. -"But there isn't any broccoli left. Oh, wait, yes there is! There is one small piece of broccoli next to the carrots. But there aren't any onions."
Mom writes that down. -"Okay, no onions. Now, what about the main dish? How much meat is there?"
Leo looks at the cutting board. -"There is some chicken and there are some sausages, but there isn't any beef. Is there any fish?"
-"No, there isn't any fish today," Sofia says. -"We have enough chicken and sausages for everyone."
-"Perfect," Mom says, smiling. "And how many desserts are there for tonight?"
Sofia laughs. -"There is a delicious chocolate cake, and there are some sweet pastries, too. We love dessert!"
-"Excellent," says Mom. -"What about drinks? How much juice is there?"
-"There is a full pitcher of orange juice," Leo says, -"and there is some water on the shelves, but there isn't any milk. Oh, and are there any sodas?"
-"No, there aren't any sodas," Mom says. -"We have water and juice instead, which is much healthier!"
Mom looks at her shopping list. -"So, we need onions, milk, and maybe some more bread. We are ready to go to the supermarket!"

Reading Comprehension Questions

1. Are there any onions in the kitchen?
2. How many desserts are there for tonight?
3. Is there any fish?
4. How much juice is there?
5. Are there any sodas?

LIVEWORKSHEETS