Visiting My Village

Last month, I and my family went to Banyumas which was located in Central Java, Indonesia. We drove a car. I enjoyed the journey all day long although it took 2 days to get there. We were fun, my brother made some jokes all day. My father told us some stories on the way. My mother slept on the back seat.

My first day in my village, I visited my siblings and friends. We are welcomed by happiness. When I saw my parents, they cried because they looked so happy to meet up their families. The next day, I, my brother, my cousin and my nephew went to a popular place in Purwokerto. It was called "Baturaden". That was a favorite spot in Purwokerto. We enjoyed local specialty food as culinary. I was satisfied and so were they. Next, I took a photo with traditional music musicians.

My brother, my cousin and my nephew enjoy the view with other visitors. They took a photo with their style like I did. In the evening, we were back home. And did other private activities, such as made a conversation, told the story and made a joke.

The day after tomorrow, my cousin had a ceremony to say thanks to God for blessing their son. It was called "Nazar". When the parents had a promise for something and it was realized. They had to make a traditional ceremony. I watched that traditional ceremony and took their photograph.

For the last show, we were entertained by "Ebeg". It was traditional art. The player danced through the traditional music and they were handled by the spirit. It was scary, but it was fun and entertain.

Time run so fast because the next day was our last day in the village. So I took the last photo to bring it home. They were my family and still family until the last breath in this world.

Finally, we had to go home and brought a love experience from family. Yaps… that was the hardest part.

There is a boy from Uganda named John Ssbunya. He is a shy boy and speaks very slowly. His character might have been affected by his past.
Uganda was in a war when John was two years old. He was left all alone since he lost his mother and father in the war. He would have died if he was not adopted by a colony of green monkeys when he was left all alone. He learnt their behaviour after living with them for three years, such as living on a diet of fruits, berries and nuts and climbing trees.
In 1991, a woman saw him scavenging for food with chimpanzees. She reported it to the villagers and people caught him. It was hard since the monkeys were fighting back to prevent the people from taking John away from them.
John was brought to an orphanage and taught to behave and speak like human. When he was able to utter his first words, it was found that he had a great singing voice. John Ssuburya has joined a 20-strong Pearl of Africa children's choir now and has gone to many different countries on tour.

Last vacation, I decided to visit the Dani tribe in Baliem Valley to do a little adventure. First, I stopped at Muliama village, which was about 20 kilometres from Wamena to enjoy the Baliem Cultural Festival it was held for several days. People of the Dani were singing, dancing and playing their traditional music in the festival, They painted their faces with pig grease, clay ash and fur. They held their bows, arrows and spears to act as if they were attacking each other. However, no blood was shed. It was all intended only as a threatening show of force.
When the festival ended, I chose to join a trekking trip to the spectacular villages of the Dani. The trip gave me an opportunity to see the real lifestyle of the Dani people. I saw great wooden bridges across the fast-flowing mountain rivers. I also learnt that men and women did not live in one traditional house. Another amazing thing that I learnt was that people missing fingers were a result of a custom whereby both men and women might cut off their fingers if they were left by the loved one.
My eight-day trip to Baliem Valley gave me a remarkable impression of how rich Indonesia's culture is.
