READ THE TEXT CAREFULLY !

Jaguar is famous animal in Asia because there is a car named after the animal although it does not live here. It can be seen in some points, that the jaguar belongs to the cat family since it is one of his four big cats along with the lion, the tiger and the leopard, that's why a jaguar is often mistaken for a leopard. A jaguar, however, has larger rosette markings, a stronger body and a shorter tail. The jaguar is brownish yellow in color and has spots on the head.

Jaguars can live in a various location, such as in rainforest and wet grassland in central and south America. The jaguar is an clever hunter, while the other roaring cats kill their preys by biting it at the neck, the jaguar kills them by biting it through its skull. It usually kills small animals but it can also attack and kill cattle or deer.
