

	The Abraham Lincoln was attacked by the monster. Aronnax, Conseil and Ned were taken on board and put in a cell. They were told that they could never leave. The monster was a submarine. Its captain was Nemo.
	When one of Nemo's men died, they went to an underwater cemetery. In Sri Lanka the men went pearl fishing and saved a pearl fisher from a shark. In Vigo Bay Nemo took Aronnax underwater to a living volcano and the lost city of Atlantis. On their way to the South Pole, the men fought with giant whale killers.
	Three weeks later, near Norway, Aronnax, Ned and Conseil left the Nautilus on a small boat. There was a maelstrom and they found themselves on land. The doctor lost all of his books. They never knew what happened to the submarine.
	In April the submarine arrived in the Bahamas. There it was attacked by a giant squid. In June Nemo destroyed a warship near England, because the men on board had killed his family.
	The men began their journey on 5th November. Nemo showed the submarine to the doctor and answered his questions. They went hunting to the underwater forest of Crespo Island. The captain fought with a sea spider. The Nautilus hit corals and got stuck in New Guinea. There the submarine was attacked by the islanders, but when the water went up they escaped.
	In 1866 there was a strange monster in the sea. A lot of bad accidents happened. The worst of them was caused to the Scotia. The Americans decided to send a ship called the Abraham Lincoln to go after the monster. Dr Pierre Aronnax, his servant Conseil and a whaler, Ned Land, were on board.
