One of the _____ popular weekend leisure activities in Britain _____ attending car boot sales. Hundreds _____ people park their cars in fields ____large car parks. They set _____ tables at the back of their car _____ display the items they want to trade. Anything and everything is bought and sold, _____ unwanted household items to collectable items to stolen goods. Most _____ it is junk, but people occasionally find incredible bargains.

Although in the past, Britain had a very bad reputation _____ food, in the last ten years things _____ definitely changed for the better and this reputation _____ no longer deserved. There are _____ 30,000 restaurants in the country. In _____ cities, and even small towns, you can choose _____ Indian, Chinese, Italian, Japanese, Thai, French, Mexican, Turkish, Greek and Spanish food. There has even _____ a growth in restaurants serving high quality traditional British food.

Cooking programmes _____ TV are incredibly popular and TV chefs _____ Jamie Oliver are well-known celebrities. Recipe books are often _____ the top of the best-seller list. Health food shops are everywhere and more people are eating organic food.

LIVEWORKSHEETS