

Grammar

1 Present perfect: already & yet

I/You/ We/They	have	already made a cake.
He/She/It	has
I/You/ We/They	haven't	made a cake yet .
He/She/It	hasn't

Have	I/you/we/they	made a cake yet ?
Has	he/she/it
Yes/No,	I/you/we/they	have/haven't.
	he/she/it	has/hasn't.

Remember that already is used with affirmative sentences and usually goes before the main verb.

Yet is used with negative sentences and questions and usually goes at the end.

2 Present perfect: just

I/You/We/They	have	just eaten an apple.
He/She/It	has
Have	I/you/we/they	just eaten an apple?
Has	he/she/it
Yes/No,	I/you/we/they	have/haven't.
	he/she/it	has/hasn't.

We use just when the action has taken place very recently. We don't use just in negative sentences.

Remember that we use just when the action has happened very recently. It always goes before the main verb.

Vocabulary

1 Preparing for a party

send invitations

put out the food

clean the furniture

make a cake

serve drinks

go shopping

blow up balloons

sweep the floor

decorate the room

sell tickets

make posters

choose the music

2 Accidents

twist my ankle

scratch my leg

cut my finger

burn my hand

bruise my arm

