

A vibrant, cartoon-style illustration of a classroom scene. A teacher, Sally, stands near a doorway on the left, holding a book. Several children are engaged in different activities: some are sitting at tables, some are playing with blocks, and others are working on projects. Labels identify the following children: The Twins, Noah, Ania, Sarah, Mason, Lily, and Ben. The classroom is filled with various educational materials, including a clock, a bulletin board, and a display of children's drawings. The scene is lively and depicts a typical day in a young child's classroom.
